What Is Self-Directed Care?

Self-Directed Care (SDC) is a person-centered planning process that allows an individual to exercise greater control over the funding used for their care. Designed to provide service recipients with a greater measure of independence and flexibility, SDC allows more choices, greater control, and enhanced personal responsibility for care and support services.

How Does Self-Direction Work?

- Participants are screened and, if approved, allocated a certain amount of funding.
- Funding is provided to support development and attainment of goals related to health, wellness and positive recovery outcomes.
- Support Broker will work in collaboration with each participant to assist with completing a Recovery Oriented Action Plan and a budget.

- Individuals must be enrolled in a Health and Recovery Plan (HARP) or an HIV Special Needs Plan (SNP), and
- Individuals must be eligible to receive Behavioral Health Home and Community Based Services (HCBS).

Benefits of Self-Directed Care

- Enjoy meaningful relationships with family and friends,
